LATERAN BASILICA

In today's first reading, Ezekiel relates his vision of a remarkable temple, built in a restored Jerusalem. The water flowing from this temple miraculously makes salt water fresh. By his description, his audience knew he was speaking of the Dead Sea, whose toxic waters cannot support any life visible to the naked eye. But in Ezekiel's vision, the temple's water purifies this sea, enabling trees on its banks to grow and bear fruit, bringing life to what is literally called "dead". His vision symbolizes a life-giving waters of baptism that flow from all churches. Those waters have certainly flowed from the Lateran Basilica, which was built in 324 CE—soon after Emperor Constantine legalized Christianity—and is regarded as the mother church of all churches in the world. In today's Gospel, Jesus takes it one step further when he refers to his body as a temple, the dwelling place of God, which God will raise to new life in the Resurrection. Paul tells the church at Corinth that they are God's building, for the Holy Spirit dwells in them. So too are we temples of God, dedicated in baptism to glorifying the Holy Spirit flowing out from us.

How can what you say and what you do bring life to those around you, like the life-giving waters that flow from the temple in Ezekiel's vision?

—We Celebrate Worship Resource, Vol. 50, No. 3

BASILICA DE LETRÁN

En la primera lectura de hoy, Ezequiel relata su visión de un templo extraordinario, construido en una Jerusalén restaurada. El agua que fluye de este templo convierte milagrosamente el agua salada en agua dulce. Por su descripción, su audiencia sabía que hablaba del Mar Muerto, cuyas aguas tóxicas no pueden sustentar ninguna vida visible a simple vista. Pero en la visión de Ezequiel, el agua del templo purifica este mar, permitiendo que los árboles en sus orillas crezcan y den fruto, dando vida a lo que literalmente se llama «muerto». Su visión simboliza las aguas vivificantes del bautismo que fluyen de todas las iglesias. Ciertamente, esas aguas fluyeron de la Basílica de Letrán, construida en el año 324 d. C., poco después de que el emperador Constantino legalizara el cristianismo, y considerada la iglesia madre de todas las iglesias del mundo. En la lectura de hoy, Jesús va un paso más allá al referirse a su cuerpo como un templo, la morada de Dios, que Dios resucitará a una nueva vida en la Resurrección. Pablo les dice a los corintios que son edificio de Dios, porque el Espíritu Santo habita en ellos. Así también nosotros somos templos de Dios, consagrados en el bautismo a glorificar al Espíritu Santo que emana de nosotros.

¿Cómo pueden tus palabras y acciones dar vida a quienes te rodean, como las aguas vivificantes que fluyen del templo en la visión de Ezequiel?

—We Celebrate Worship Resource, Vol. 50, No. 3
